The Taste of a Place — Shortened
How can you capture the taste of an entire land — a country of millions, where every street, temple, and breeze carries history? How can one sip hold the noise of Bangkok, the stillness of temples, the calm seas, and the breath of mountains?

A drink is more than flavor — it is a door, and taste is the key. One sip, and you are there: in Bangkok's pulsing streets, under neon lights, in the spicy air of night markets. Close your eyes — you stand in a temple where saffron-robed monks move in silence scented with lotus and morning light. Another breath — and you're on a turquoise shore, or in northern mists among waterfalls and ancient hills.

This drink unites the aromas of land, spirit of people, breath of nature, and echoes of history. It is an invitation to taste a place — the taste of Thailand, the taste of a journey that begins with a single sip.

THAI TEA

Green Thai Tea	4,0
Hot / Cold

The history of Thai tea did not begin with exotic fruits, but with Chinese refugees in the 1940s who brought black tea bushes to northern Thailand and began cultivating them on an industrial scale. To make the strong and bitter brew more enjoyable in the hot climate, locals started generously diluting it with sweetened condensed milk, ice, and aromatic spices such as star anise and cinnamon. This is how the famous "orange" tea was born: the bright color was originally a marketing trick achieved through the use of food coloring, but over time it became a true symbol of Thai hospitality.
